Best-Selling Brand of Ergonomic Keyboards<sup>1</sup>

People often ignore the warning signs of hand and wrist injuries, unaware they might be doing significant harm. It is better to proactively address the problem by using ergonomically designed peripherals, as it can be very costly and difficult to treat an injury after the fact.

Workers spend an average of 6 hours a day on their computers for work of workers experience discomfort on the job of people say they lose focus due to pain

Choose Microsoft ergonomic mice and keyboards to help reduce the risk of injury.*

Are your keystrokes secure?

Wireless keyboards transmit information over the air. Without proper security measures in place, a cybercriminal could intercept your keystrokes and gain access to your passwords or your network, increasing your risk to a cyberattack.

Advanced Encryption Standard (AES) technology is designed to help protect your information by encrypting your keystrokes.

All Microsoft USB wireless keyboards have AES built-in.

Look for the padlock

Secured data encryption

AES keyboards from Microsoft are permanently paired with their receivers at the factory—no key information is ever shared over the air.
